English Patent No. 2247391, issued on March 3, 1992 to Clive, displays ventilated footwear including a resilient plastics material chamber received within the heel and a valved air inlet communicating through airflow channels in a midsole unit and perforations through an insole. Varying foot pressure during locomotion causes the volume of the chamber to increase and decrease, thereby exhausting stale air from the foot area.

NOTE: "An information disclosure statement shall be considered by the Office if filed by the applicant:

- (1) Within three months of the filing date of a national application;
- (2) Within three months of the date of entry of the national stage as set forth in § 1.491 in an international application; or
- (3) Before the mailing date of a first Office action on the merits, whichever event occurs last."

37 C.F.R. § 1.97(b).

NOTE: "Each individual associated with the filing and prosecution of a patent application has a duty of candor and good faith in dealing with the Office, which includes a duty to disclose to the Office all information known to that individual to be material to patentability as defined in this section." 37 C.F.R. § 1.56(a).

Section 9. Concise Explanation of English Language Listed Information
Items (OPTIONAL)

NOTE: "Applicants may, if they wish, provide a concise explanation of why English-language information is being submitted and how it is understood to be relevant. Concise explanations are helpful to the Office, particularly where documents are lengthy and complex and applicant is aware of a section that is highly relevant to patentability or where a large number of documents are submitted and applicant is aware that one or more are highly relevant to patentability." Notice of April 20, 1992 (1138 O.G. 37-41, 38).

U.S. Patent No. 6,408,541, issued on June 25, 2002 to Moretti, teaches a waterproof and moisture-permeable shoe with a waterproof upper assembly. This upper assembly is perimetrically connected thru a lower outwardly-folded edge to an insole having an outer peripheral component by a plurality of stitches. The shoe includes a waterproof outsole connected below the insole and a waterproof connecting element, made of moisture-impermeable sealing material.

U.S. Patent No. 6,305,100, issued on October 23, 2001 to Komarnycky, demonstrates a shoe which facilitates ventilation between its' inner area and the surrounding environment through an air cavity created by a dual-layer sole system, allowing foot heat and moisture to escape and exhaust into free open space. A plurality of ventilation ports are used to create bi-directional air exchange and circulation.

Italian Patent No. 1288658, issued September 23, 1998 to Basso, suggests a shoe, which includes an acclimatized technical sole structure in which the upper is associated to a sole prior to the interposing of a stratified insole, in which at least one layer is treated with hygienic anti-mold and anti-bacterial products.

German Patent Application No. 197115097, issued on November 6, 1997 to Usui, provides sole elements, obtained in block copolymers according to the sequence A-B-A, where A is styrene.

English Patent No. 2250417, issued on June 10, 1992 to Chao, teaches a ventilated insole including an upper layer and lower layer formed of foam material, the layers being attached to each other by adhesive. The adhesive layer of the lower surface utilizes longitudinal ventilating grooves, permitting air in the shoe to be smoothly exhausted. The upper layer can be formed with several circular holes above the grooves to form a more efficient ventilating passage system.
